Presentation of Addiction by Dr. Christensen

The presentation focused on how to evaluate when addiction should be suspected, how addiction affects the brain, and the steps in evaluating the type of treatment that should be considered and how it should be administered. The presentation also mentioned opposition to 12 Step programs, but provided research that would indicate 12 Step programs are effective in treatment and successful in long-term recovery.

Some Committee members expressed concern about the research indicating the effectiveness and long-term recovery results for 12 Step programs. Committee members felt that it was important that the Committee do its due diligence by reviewing concerns regarding 12 Step programs.
