INTRODUCTORY.

The compilation of the military history of each soldier of the Civil War (who was a resident of the State of Michigan at the time he enlisted), for publication and distribution has been the subject of controversy for years. The magnitude of such a work, together with the cost of publication, the exhaustive research required and the amount of clerical services necessary in its compilation, have been large factors in postponing, from time to time, the consideration of the subject.

To comply as far as possible with this demand an admirable history was prepared by Adjutant General John Robertson, a few years ago, entitled "Michigan in the War," and gratuitously distributed through the generosity of the state to the surviving soldiers of the war and to the families of those who perished. But this work was general in character, referring mostly to regimental organizations, and contained the military biography of commissioned officers only.

The enlisted men of the army who endured the hardships and suffered the perils of war considered it due themselves and their children that their names should appear of record in the archives of their country and their services noted, that future generations might know the honorable part their ancestors bore in the memorable conflict known as the Civil War. Such a record will ever be a source of patriotic pride to the soldier who did his duty whether he served in the ranks or in command of divisions or corps, and an inspiration to the youth of the country who must in the future assume the civic and military responsibilities of this grand republic.

At the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, Department of Michigan, held at Pontiac, June 11 and 12, 1902, the following resolution was passed unanimously:

"Resolved: That the Department of Michigan, Grand Army of the Republic, in encampment assembled, hereby request of the legislature and the Governor of Michigan that immediate provision be made for the publication of the record of the officers and enlisted men who served from this state during the Civil War in form substantially the same as those published by other states, notably New Hampshire, Connecticut and Ohio."

The Department Commander appointed a committee on legislation consisting of C. E. Foote, Kalamazoo, Col. Fred Schneider, Lansing, and Alfred Milnes, Coldwater. This committee drafted the following bill, which was passed by both houses of the legislature in the session of 1903, and was promptly signed by Governor Bliss.

The act is known as Act 147, Public Acts of 1903.

The first three sections of the Act are as follows, and the concluding sections refer to provisions of contracting for publication and auditing accounts.

The People of the State of Michigan enact:

Section 1. The Adjutant General shall, as soon as practicable after the passage of this act, prepare for publication an alphabetical regimental history of all soldiers and sailors who enlisted from and were credited to this state during the war of the rebellion. Such history shall contain the name, residence, date of enlistment, date of muster in, rank, promotion, wounds received, capture and imprisonment by the enemy, date of discharge, muster out or death, and such information as can be obtained from the records of this state, the war, navy and other departments of the Federal Government, or other authentic sources, as will correct or complete the records, making as far as practicable a complete and concise military history of each soldier or sailor so serving; prefacing each volume of such records appropriately, with a concise general history of the organization therein named. He shall direct the preparation and compilation of such records for publication in forty-three, forty-four, forty-five, or forty-six volumes, assigning as far as practicable one volume to each of the following organizations and groups of organizations, viz.: One volume to each regimental infantry organization and reorganization, numbered from First to Thirtieth regiment; one volume each to First regiment of Michigan Engineers and Mechanics, First regiment Michigan Sharpshooters, and First regiment Michigan colored troops; one volume to the fourteen Michigan Batteries of Light Artillery; one volume to Gen. George A. Custer's Cavalry Brigade, consisting of the First, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh regiments of Michigan cavalry; one volume to each of the Second, Third, Fourth, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh Michigan cavalry regiments; and one volume to contain all other miscellaneous organizations and detachments enlisted in this state and serving in Michigan and other state organizations; and one volume to contain a general alphabetical index of all names mentioned in the different volumes constituting the entire edition, showing in what organization or volume each name in the index may be found, for the convenient reference of the public in library sets, which index volume is herewith limited to two hundred copies. For this purpose the Adjutant General is authorized to employ such extra clerical assistance and procure such blanks and stationery as may be necessary in the preparation, compilation, comparing and proof reading, necessary to secure historical and typographical accuracy.

Section 2. The distribution of said volumes when published shall be made under the supervision of the Adjutant General, in the same general manner now adopted for the distribution of "Michigan in the War," under section three, act two hundred forty-eight, public acts of eighteen hundred eighty-seven. One regimental volume to the applicant of the organization in which he served as follows: Any person who served in any Michigan regiment; battery, company or detachment during the Civil War, and has been honorably discharged, or any person who served in any regiment, battery or company from any other state, or in the regular army, or in the navy, properly accredited to the State of Michigan, and has been honorably discharged, or if such person be dead, then his widow if living, or if she be dead, then his father if living, if he be dead, then the mother of any such person, or if she be dead, then to his eldest child, if any there be; and any such person who is still in the service, shall be entitled to receive one copy of said work, on application and identification to the Adjutant General, and if the application for such copy be not made in person by depositing with the Adjutant General necessary postage to cover the expense of sending such book. Also complete sets to adjutants general of other states, and to state and United States public libraries upon application, and to such other libraries in this state as the Governor may approve, and may be purchased by any other persons who may apply at cost of publication.

Section 3. So soon as the work of preparation and compilation of the historical records herein provided for shall have progressed sufficiently near completion to enable printers and binders to make accurate estimates of the cost of publication, the Adjutant General shall serve a written notification of that fact on the Board of State Auditors; upon such notification, at the earliest practicable moment, the Board of State Auditors is hereby directed to solicit sealed bids for the publication, printing and binding of forty-five thousand volumes of "A Record of Michigan Soldiers and Sailors in the War of the Rebellion, Eighteen Hundred Sixty-one to Eighteen Hundred Sixty-Five," and give public notice of the time and place for receiving such bids and the requirements of the contract in accordance with this act by publishing the same in such paper or papers, and for such a period as will in the judgment of the board bring the subject to the attention of the several prominent publishing houses in this state: Provided, That the cost of such work complete shall not exceed fourteen thousand dollars for the printing, binding and delivery of the entire edition herein provided for; and the standard of excellence in quality of material, style of binding, typography and style of printing shall be equal to that used by the state of Massachusetts in its recent publication of "Massachusetts' Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolutionary War," copies of which are now on file in the Adjutant General's office of this state: Provided, further, That the apportionment of the copies of the different regimental volumes of the edition of forty-five thousand volumes herein provided for, shall be in the same relative proportion as the total enrollment of the organizations represented in any single volume bears to the total enrollment of the entire edition as provided for in this act; for which purpose the Adjutant General shall direct the preparation of, and furnish the Board of State Auditors with a comprehensive table of data, showing the total enrollment of the organization, and the total number of printed pages intended for each volume, and the apportionment of the total number of copies to each of such volumes, for the guidance of bidders for the contract of publishing such work.

Immediately upon the approval of the act by the Governor, the Adjutant General commenced active preparations to compile the work as provided for in the bill. No state has been more generous than Michigan in trying to secure full and complete historical military data of her sons, who patriotically volunteered to defend the integrity of their country, and probably the records in the military department are as accurate and complete as any like records of any state in the Union. Yet with all the care and research that has been made, there are individual histories that are deficient in some particulars, owing to the fact that the returns from which they were copied were written in the field during active and protracted campaigns, when great battles were fought, and the movement of troops continued incessantly night and day, circumstances incompatible with accuracy, completeness and legibility, and by officers who succeeded suddenly in command by the death of their predecessors. The greater number who possessed the information desired have been removed by death, and their silent lips can never complete the unwritten history of their comrades.

It was sometimes impossible in the stirring times of war for commanding officers to give authentic and final history of men who disappeared in a great battle, as in many cases the bodies of the dead could not be found, and if possession of the field was yielded to the enemy the fate of those who were made prisoners of war could only, if ever, be learned through unreliable Confederate sources.

For such heroes who died for their country and who sleep in nameless graves their epitaph is inscribed in this history as "Missing in action." A more honorable or heroic epitaph could not be penned. Thousands of the Union dead have been removed by the Government from the field where they fell, and their bodies have been placed in national cemeteries, beautified and adorned, as the mausoleum of the nation's defenders with appropriate monuments at their resting places.

In order to complete some of the records of the Adjutant General's Office, which is the custodian of all the field returns of the Civil War, Governor Bliss made a request of the Secretary of War, seconded by Senators Burrows and Alger, asking that the incomplete, individual records of this office be completed, upon presentation by the Adjutant General, provided the War Department was in possession of the facts desired. For reasons which seemed sufficient to the Secretary of War, the request was denied.

To supplement the records of this office so as to make each individual history complete as far as possible, blanks were prepared and sent to all the Grand Army Posts of the state, with the request that the names of all Michigan soldiers in the Post and vicinity be returned to the Adjutant General stating the residence, if living, and, if dead, the date of death and place of burial.

Three hundred out of the three hundred and sixty Posts of the state responded, and the data gathered from these reports have been added to the official history shown by the records of this office. Without doubt there are some inaccuracies in these reports, but the majority of them are correct and will enable many ex-soldiers to locate their comrades, if living, and to know their resting places if dead.

A request was also made of each superintendent of the eighty national cemeteries to forward to the Adjutant General the names of all Michigan soldiers buried in such cemeteries. A gratifying response was received, and these reports have been carefully compiled and added to the history of the soldier. These reports of the superintendents of national cemeteries tell a mournful story. The superintendent of the National Cemetery at Andersonville, Ga., reports the names of six hundred and forty-seven Michigan soldiers buried there, victims of Andersonville prison. There is scarcely a national cemetery in the United States that does not contain the bodies of Michigan soldiers, and a number of them as many as the cemetery at Andersonville, Ga.

Near the close of the war there were many recruits at depots awaiting transportation to join regiments at the front, but when it was found their services would not be needed, many returned home without the formality of a muster out, and their final disposition was incomplete, and in many such cases shows "no, further record."

In the compilation of this work no pains have been spared and no research of the almost numberless field returns made forty years ago, has seemed too arduous to make the soldiers' record absolutely complete if there were material existing to make this possible. That inaccuracies will appear is unavoidable from the nature of the work. The inaccuracies are not the result of careless clerical work in the Adjutant General's office, but are due to the hasty compilation of returns in the field, where names were misspelled and where the name of a soldier is spelled differently in the muster-in and muster-out rolls.

In cases where the name could not be verified as the correct one both are published. When inaccuracies appear in the record if the soldier will send his discharge papers to the Adjutant General, the corrections will be made in the official records of the office and the discharge papers promptly returned. It scarcely occurred to the officers who made their official returns to the different departments that forty years after the conflict, an individual history of each soldier who participated would be written. Had such been known then, the meagre and scant accounts of skirmishes, battles and sieges—many of them destined to be of world-wide fame—would have been extended and written out fully giving a comprehensive history of individuals, companies and regiments, a history that would be a priceless heritage today and to future generations.

The hardships of a campaign, the duties exacted night and day, the constant attention to matters of vital importance, are not conducive to literary efforts of biography or general history. It is pathetic to know that thousands upon thousands of Union soldiers who participated in many of the most desperate battles of the Civil War, have no records of such battles to their credit in the official reports. A limited number were fortunate enough to have their names recorded by their officers as participating in such engagements.

Whenever the official records have mentioned the battles in which the soldier fought, or wounds that he received, or promotions made, or any gallant and meritorious service, such record has been carefully noted and attached to the soldier's history. At the commencement of the work it was found that many soldiers saw service in more than one regiment, and as the appropriation contemplated but one volume to each man, the entire history of the soldier has been compiled under his name and placed in the volume where he served longest. The primary object of the whole work has been to group the comrades who served in the same regiment, with names arranged in alphabetical order, and present him with the volume containing his own military history and the history of those with whom he served.

The soldiers who enlisted for three years and after serving two years re-enlisted in the field for "three years or during the war," have the distinctive and honorable title of "veteran" placed after their names.

Careful enumeration has been made of the total enrollment of each regiment, together with the list of casualties.

The work of compiling these individual histories has been long and arduous, but it has been one of gratification and satisfaction to record the gallant deeds of Michigan men who contributed so gloriously to the unity and perpetuity of the Union.

Fourth Cavalry.

The Fourth Cavalry was organized at Detroit and was mustered into the United States service Aug. 29, 1862. After entering the field it was brigaded with the Third Kentucky Cavalry, the Seventh Pennsylvania and the Second Indiana. These regiments served in this brigade during the war, and whatever assignment it was given in the division or corps was always known as "Minty's Brigade," and became as famous in the west as did the "Michigan Cavalry Brigade" in the east.

Robert H. G. Minty was Major in the Second Cavalry in 1861, Lieutenant Colonel of the Third Cavalry a few days afterward, and was made Colonel of the Fourth Cavalry July, 1862. He commanded the brigade of which the Fourth Michigan formed a part a greater portion of the time during its service in the field.

The field, staff and line officers at organization were as follows:

The Fourth left Detroit Sept. 26, 1862, for Louisville, Ky., with an enrollment of 1233 officers and men.

In October the regiment saw its first real service in an engagement with the confederate General John Morgan at Stanford, Ky., and drove him and his forces to Crab Orchard, Ky., taking a number of prisoners. From this time to the end of the year the Fourth was constantly on duty, taking the advance of the Union forces from Nashville, upon Triune, Franklin, Lavergne and other points leading out from Nashville, and making reconnoissances and scouts in every direction, meeting the enemy almost daily and invariably was victor when not overwhelmed by superior numbers.

During these months of active service the regiment as a whole, or by detachments, made a number of saber charges with brilliant success, which was somewhat unusual at that period of the war, or fought on foot with the facility of veteran infantry when occasion required. It routed the enemy on many a field and captured prisoners and destroyed vast amounts of public property which the south could ill afford to lose.

In January, 1863, though the weather was severe and the roads almost impassable and rations scarce, the regiment started from Murfreesboro for the Harpeth River, met Forest's and Wheeler's Cavalry and drove them back with considerable loss of killed, wounded and prisoners.

The following month the regiment was in pursuit of Wheeler and Forest near Fort Donelson, captured two officers of Forest's staff and a number of his men, besides wagons loaded with supplies. During this march of 280 miles in snow, sleet and rain the regiment captured 145 prisoners and 14 commissioned officers.

March 4th the regiment, with its brigade, was a part of General Sheridan's forces, moved out of Murfreesboro toward Shelbyville and Franklin and during the next ten days was in constant contacts with the enemy, finally driving him across Duck River.

After a short rest at Murfreesboro the regiment, with the cavalry forces, moved upon McMinnville. Near this place the Fourth burned an important railroad bridge and captured and appropriated or destroyed a vast amount of quartermaster stores and commissary supplies belonging to the confederates. The regiment returned to Murfreesboro on the 26th, having marched 328 miles and captured 150 prisoners.

During the month of April the Fourth took part in a number of expeditions, when it moved out of Murfreesboro, some of them of a very hazardous nature, but always acquitted itself in a manner to receive the highest praise of its commanding officers.

On the 22d day of May, 1863, the regiment, with its brigade, marched to Middleton, and the Fourth charged through the town and a mile beyond, where it met the First Alabama. Quickly dismounting and advancing on the camp with their repeating rifles, the confederates fled and the Fourth took possession, capturing the flag of the First Alabama and destroying a large amount of small arms, ammunition, saddles and clothing. The flag, by resolution of the regiment, was presented to the Governor of Michigan and is now deposited in the Military Museum at the Capitol.

During the month of June the regiment made several important movements and met the enemy, consisting mostly of Morgan's command, on the Manchester pike and drove him across Stone River again at Spring Creek, Alexandria, Guy's Gap and at Shelbyville drove the confederates under General Wheeler into and across Duck River, where a large number were drowned or killed, and the brigade captured three pieces of artillery and 200 prisoners. The following two months the regiment made a number of reconnoissances and on the 8th of August charged General Debel's confederates at Sparta, routing him, and reached McMinnville on the 10th.

The Fourth started the 17th of August, under the direction of General Rosecranz, for Sequatchie Valley, on the Chattanooga campaign. The regiment occupied Chattanooga in September and scouted the country as far as Lee and Gordon's Mills and Crawfish Springs. On the 15th it crossed the Chickamauga River over Reed's Bridge and proceeded to near Ringgold to watch the operations of the enemy. Here Colonel Minty was informed that the confederate forces under Forest were at Ringgold, Longstreet at Dalton, Pegram at Leets and Buckner at Rock Springs.

The 16th and 17th the Fourth, with its brigade, skirmished with the enemy and on the 18th the confederate infantry advanced and slowly pushed the cavalry across the Chickamauga, though the ground was stubbornly defended, and the enemy detained from crossing to the west side until the following morning. When Colonel Minty reported to Major General Crittenden that the enemy's infantry in force was in the immediate vicinity and was about to cross the Chickamauga and attack the Union forces the story seemed too incredible to believe. But General Crittenden found to his cost the following morning that Colonel Minty's report was correct and that Bragg's army was in position to attack and was already moving.

The battle of Chickamauga was fought on the 19th and 20th, and for severity and loss was scarcely equaled by any battle of the civil war, considering the number of forces engaged.

During the night of the 20th the Union forces were withdrawn from the field as far as Rossville, but the Michigan Cavalry Brigade did not pass through the Gap and return upon Chattanooga until the 22d.

Early in October the confederate General Wheeler started on a raid in rear of the Union army, and the Fourth, with its brigade, went in pursuit. The march was a long and weary one, first crossing Woldren's Ridge, then through the Cumberland Mountains to McMinnville, Murfreesboro, Pulaski, thence to Huntsville, New Market and Maysville, Ala., and retired to Chattanooga, the 21st.

During the remaining months of the year the Fourth was constantly in the saddle, making long marches, fighting the enemy and capturing and destroying immense stores of public property.

The regiment was at Pulaski, Tenn., in January, 1864, and again proceeded to Chattanooga. From this point numerous reconnoissances were made to Summersville, Dalton, Ringgold, Tunnel Hill and the Etowah.

Returning from Etowah to Chattanooga, the regiment was sent by rail to Nashville, where it received new equipments and was armed with the Spencer carbine.

In April, 1864, the Fourth marched across the Cumberland Mountains to the vicinity of Chattanooga and then crossing Lookout Mountain and Taylor's Ridge attacked the enemy at Rome, Ga., on the 15th, where it routed a confederate brigade. Joining in the Atlanta campaign with the army under General Sherman, the Fourth led the advance of the infantry and took part in all the engagements of the campaign in and around Atlanta.

The regiment formed a part of General Kilpatrick's force of 2,500 men in a raid south of Atlanta, and when the Union troops reached Flint River they found the enemy behind formidable entrenchments, but dismounted and, fighting on foot, charged him into Jonesboro.

Kilpatrick then marched for Lovejoy's Station to destroy the Macon Railroad. Here the Union forces were surrounded and, being outnumbered five to one, were in a critical situation.

Minty's Brigade was then massed by regiments and with drawn saber cut its way through the enemy's line, thereby securing the safety of the balance of the command.

After the fall of Atlanta, the Fourth was engaged in scouting, and detachments of the regiment had several severe encounters with the enemy. In October, when General Hood commenced his march north with the intention of taking Nashville, Tenn., the Fourth, with its brigade, followed in pursuit, and marching through Rome, Kingston and Resaca, Ga., met Wheeler's cavalry at Little River, Ala., on the 20th and drove the confederates five miles, killing and capturing a large number.

The regiment was sent to Louisville, Ky., to once more receive new equipments, and on the 28th of December started on the march for Nashville, where it arrived Jan. 8, 1865. Later in the month it marched to Gravelly Springs, Ala. Early in March the regiment started on a long raid through Alabama, meeting the enemy at numerous places, capturing guns and supplies, and arrived before Salma, April 2d, which was strongly fortified and defended by Forest's men, estimated at 9000.

The Fourth, with its brigade, was dismounted and assaulted the works, losing heavily in the advance, but, undaunted by the terrific fire, scaled the breastworks and with the balance of the command captured the city and 25 pieces of artillery, a large amount of ammunition and stores, besides 2800 prisoners.

The Fourth then marched through Montgomery to Macon, Ga., and the Union troops here received the surrender of Major General Howell Cobb, with his entire confederate force of 380 officers, 2000 men and 62 pieces of artillery, with all the arsenals, founderies and machine shops in the city.

It was here that the commanding General of the Union forces received the news of the surrender of Generals Lee and Johnson, which terminated hostilities east of the Mississippi.

It was soon learned that Jefferson Davis, president of the so-called southern confederacy, was trying to make his escape to the Atlantic coast.

Lieutenant Colonel Pritchard was directed by Colonel Minty to proceed with the Fourth to the Ockmulgee River and try to learn the whereabouts of Davis. Colonel Pritchard learned that Davis was moving towards Irwinsville, Ga., and, selecting 150 of his best mounted troopers, started in rapid pursuit. He found Mr. Davis encamped in the woods with members of his family and friends, and all were soon made prisoners.

The Fourth then returned to Macon, where Lieutenant Colonel Pritchard, Captain Hudson and Lieutenants Stauben and Purinton, with 22 men, were detailed to escort Mr. Davis to Washington, D. C.

A mere outline of the work done, the marches made, the hardships endured and the battles fought, as above written, only gives scanty justice to the results accomplished by such a regiment as the Fourth.

A work to be comprehensive as a regimental history would require a volume to chronicle the daily events of the regiment and its detachments. This volume is designed to give the military history of the enlisted men, as well as officers of the regiment, and only an outline sketch as to the movements of the regiment, which is the apology for the foregoing abridged history.

The regiment left Macon for home at the close of the war and reached Nashville, June 17th. On the 1st of July it was mustered out of service and returned to Detroit, Mich., July 10, 1865, where it was paid and disbanded.

During its term of service it had engaged the enemy at Stamford, Ky., Oct. 14, 1862; Gallatin, Tenn., Nov. 8, 1862; Lebanon, Tenn., Nov. 9, 1862; Rural Hill, Tenn., Nov. 15, 1862; Baird's Mill, Tenn., Nov. 30, 1862; Hollow Tree Gap, Tenn., Dec. 4, 1862; Wilson's Creek Road, Tenn., Dec. 11, 1862; Franklin, Tenn., Dec. 12, 1862; Rural Hill, Tenn., Dec. 20, 1862; Wilson's Creek, Tenn., Dec. 21, 1862; Lavergne, Tenn., Dec. 26, 1862; Jefferson's Bridge, Tenn., Dec. 27, 1862; Nashville Pike, Tenn., Dec. 30, 1862; Stone River, Tenn., Dec. 31, 1862; Lavergne, Tenn., Jan. 1, 1863; Manchester Pike, Tenn., Jan. 5, 1863; Harpeth River, Tenn., Jan. 12, 1863; Cumberland Shoals, Tenn., Jan. 13, 1863; Bradyville, Tenn., Jan. 21, 1863; Woodbury, Tenn., Jan. 22, 1863; Rover, Tenn., Jan. 31, 1863; Charlotte, Tenn., Feb. 6, 1863; Rover, Tenn., Feb. 13, 1863; Auburn, Tenn., Feb. 19, 1863; Liberty, Tenn., Feb. 20, 1863; Unionville, Tenn., March 4, 1863; Thompson's Station, Tenn., March 9, 1863; Rutherford Creek, Tenn., March 10, 1863; Duck River, Tenn., March 11, 1863; Prosperity Church, Tenn., April 2, 1863; Snow Hill, Tenn., April 4, 1863; McMinnville, Tenn., April 21, 1863; Liberty, Tenn., April 3, 1863; Statesville, Tenn., April 22, 1863; Alexandria, Tenn., April 23, 1863; Wartrace, Tenn., April 29, 1863; Middletown, Tenn., May 22, 1863; Wartrace, Tenn., June 3, 1863; Versailles, Tenn., June 10, 1863; Cherry Valley, Tenn., June 16, 1863; Shelbyville, Tenn., June 27, 1863; Hickory Creek, Tenn., July 4, 1863; Tullahoma, Tenn., July 5, 1863; Rock Island, Tenn., Aug. 2, 1863; Sparta, Tenn., Aug. 9, 1863; Sperry's Mill, Tenn., Aug. 17, 1863; Smith's Cross Roads, Tenn., Aug. 21, 1863; Reed's Bridge, Ga., Sept. 18, 1863; Chickamauga, Ga., Sept. 19, 20, 21, 1863; Rossville, Ga., Sept. 22, 1863; Cotton Port, Tenn., Sept. 30, 1863; Smith's Cross Roads, Tenn., Oct. 1, 1863; Hill Creek, Tenn., Oct. 3, 1863; McMinnville, Tenn., Oct. 4, 1863; Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 17, 1863; Mission Ridge, Tenn., Nov. 25, 1863; Cleveland, Tenn., Dec. 12, 1863; Tunnel Hill, Ga., Jan. 28, 1864; Farmer's Bridge, Ga., May 15, 1864; Arundel Creek, Ga., May 16, 1864; Kingston, Ga., May 18, 1864; Dallas, Ga., May 24, 1864; Villa Rica, Ga., May 26, 1864; Lost Mountain Ga., May 27, 1864; Big Shanty, Ga., June 9, 1864; McAfee's X Roads, Ga., June 11, 1864; Noonday Creek, Ga., June 19, 1864; Lattimer's Mills, Ga., June 20, 1864; Noonday Creek, Ga., June 23, 1864; Kenesaw Mountain, Ga., June 27, 1864; Rosswell, Ga., July 4, 1864; Lebanon Mills, Ga., July 14, 1864; Stone Mountain, Ga., July 18, 1864; Covington, Ga., July 22, 1864; Flat Rock, Ga., July 27, 28, 1864; siege of Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 1 to 14, 1864; Fair Oaks, Ga., Aug. 19, 1864; Jonesboro, Ga., Aug. 19, 1864; Lovejoy's Station, Ga., Aug. 20, 1864; McDonough's, Ga., Aug. 20, 1864; Rosswell, Ga., Sept. 26, 1864; Sweet Water, Ga., Oct. 2, 1864; Moses Creek, Ga., Oct. 3, 1864; Lost Mountain, Ga., Oct. 5, 1864; New Hope Church, Ga., Oct. 7, 1864; Stilesboro, Ga., Oct. 11, 1864; Rome, Ga., Oct. 12, 1864; Blue Pond, Ga., Oct. 21, 1864; Selma, Ala., April 2, 1865; Double Bridges, Ga., April 18, 1865; Macon, Ga., April 20, 1865; capture of Jeff.
